Dissertation	Before the American Voter Committee: Jonathan Rodden (Chair), Shanto Iyengar, Simon Jackman
Job Market Paper	Before The American Voter Using a novel panel dataset of 57 million California voter registrations from 1908-1968, I describe mass politics before the New Deal realignment. I show that fundamental features of American political behavior like partisan stability and differentiated partisanship on the basis of class and ethnicity are historically contingent, emerging out of the New Deal Realignment.
Working Papers	Realignment and Resocialization In California, 1920-1944 (with Shanto Iyengar and Rebecca Weiss)  Forging the American Voter  Panel Attrition in Voter Files: An Argument for Keeping Dropped Voters (with Bernard Fraga and Alan Yan)  Politically Invisible in America (with Simon Jackman). Under Review  Why does the American National Election Study Overestimate Voter Turnout? (with Simon Jackman). Under Review  Weighted False Discovery Rate Approaches for Social Scientific Inference (with Annie Franco)  Turnout and the Big Data Revolution: Modeling Turnout Patterns in a 2-Million-Voter National Panel Dataset (with Matthew Hindman)
